Dedication

We proudly and gratefully dedicate to MR. FRANK MESITE, our Band Director and Instructor in Choral Music, this forty-fourth volume
THE PEANUT

By precept and example, in teaching and performing, he has conditioned us to appreciate good music - not alone as passive listeners but as active participants in a richly humanistic experience. To him, music is not a thing apart - and so he does not hold himself aloof from the broad sweep of school life; rather, his talent and his humor are the media through which he helps us in our individual search for a more meaningful life.

Outstanding Seniors Of 1966

Seniors, by their own seniority, tend to collect honors and awards. Among the many and various designations, none is more coveted and appreciated than that of "Outstanding Senior". Not only does it crown twelve years of individual achievement but also testifies that by their own vote one's classmates recognize and applaud the accomplishments.

At 8:05 every other Friday morning the sign "Student Senate in Session" was hung on the library door and a governing body consisting of elected representatives from each home room continued its efforts to better SHS. As in past years, the organization served mainly as the media through which students, faculty, and school clubs could make suggestions, complaints, or compliments concerning any school function. This year, though, the SCA served as a media through which the students, as a group, could try to better their community. At Thanksgiving, for example, the group held a dance with admission 25¢ plus a canned food to be taken to the Welfare. Then, at Christmas, they made stockings for the children in the hospital. Such activities, combined with projects of the Ways and Means, such as the enforcement of a "Code of Dress" and the weekly publication of an article "SHS News" in the local paper, helped the senate gain recognition as an effective student governing body.

Perhaps more than any other organization in SHS, the debating team required time, thought, and hard work from each individual member. This year proved especially difficult for the group, since a team had not existed at SHS in many years. All members were inexperienced and found debating procedures and methods completely new. However, under the guidance of Mr. Robert Gillette, a local lawyer, and Mrs. Hunter, the six students who formed the team quickly advanced and by December presented a debate concerning the right to work law. Later, they gave an exhibition on the same subject at Deep Creek, and, when the visit was returned, closed a debate on compulsory arbitration with a tied score.

The National Honor Society had for its goal this year "Achievement through scholarship, leadership, character, and service." Projects, for the most part, were planned in accordance with this theme. In keeping with its emphasis on scholarship and leadership, the club sent letters to honor roll students and posted the honor roll in the halls each six weeks. To encourage each student's development of desirable character traits, it sponsored an "Honor Week", which was observed by devotions over the public address system and by the placement of signs promoting honesty throughout the school. Members themselves illustrated the idea of "achievement through service" by raising enough money through the operation of a cloak room to present again a scholarship honoring the memory of a former sponsor, Miss Margaret Bell.

Gloria Barnett and Betsy Rice, four-year veterans of the paper staff, certainly did make the winning of another first rank their goal. Work began early in the year when staff members started to scout for future articles and from September to June the group worked to present every six weeks an interesting report in words and pictures of the happenings in and around SHS. Much credit goes to the people behind the scenes too the typist; — the sponsor, Mrs. Catton; the photographer, Hugh Cross; the business staff under Betty Jo Brantley. The cooperation of each of these people certainly helped make possible the fine job the staff did in covering all sports, clubs, and scholastic activities and in presenting editorially new ideas.

A Saturday found a group of junior and senior Tri-Hi-Y members - slacks, haircurlers and all - in the cafeteria dipping spoonful after spoonful of chow mein into cartons and bagging rice, and more rice. The following Sunday found the same group, though from appearances it might have seemed a different one, seated on the front pews of a local church. The two activities were contrasting, but both, in fact all club functions, were performed with the same goal in mind, "To Create, Maintain, and Extend, throughout the home, school and community, high standards of Christian character." The money from the chow mein sale, for example, was raised as a contribution toward the betterment of the YMCA's Blue Ridge Assembly. The group visitation of a local church was a monthly practice intended to help each girl better understand the beliefs and services of other denominations. Other activities were planned with the idea of being as rewarding to others as to the girls themselves. Through such projects as the distribution of fruit baskets to the area nursing homes and the help with the Community Chest, the plans were carried out. They also brought to the club honorable recognition, a fact well illustrated by the Ace Award received in November for outstanding achievement during each of the past five years.

At Thanksgiving, clothes and canned food were collected and carried to the welfare department, and at Christmas, the girls decorated the local nursing homes where they sang carols and distributed cakes and cookies.

Suffolk High School can certainly be proud of her many active clubs, but it should be realized that the success of each one's activities depended in part, on the work of the Inter-Club Council. This group coordinated the projects and meetings of each club with those of the other clubs. A calendar was established early in the year, and every month thereafter the clubs were required to turn in a report of their activities. The reports were scored by the Council and, at the end of the year, the club with the most points received an award. This system seemed especially effective in encouraging club activities, the major goal of the Council.

The Y.M.C.A.'s Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs of Suffolk High School certainly proved active this year. Each project had to be carefully organized and scheduled. The Hi-Y Council, a group consisting of the president and sponsor of each of the five clubs, took the job of coordinating the Hi-Y activities. Through the meetings, each president was given an opportunity to better understand the work of the National Y.M.C.A. The cooperative spirit shown by the leaders helped produce a cooperative rather than competitive spirit among the Hi-Y Clubs in Suffolk.

A mud-splashing, egg-throwing initiation this year, as always, was the first activity of the Key Club. After that, it got down to the more serious business of raising money for the Bobby Traylor Scholarship fund by conducting the annual light bulb sale. Then, turning to the field of community service, the group covered parking meters for the RMA "Suffolk Day," and distributed posters for "Fire Prevention Week," "Hire the Handicapped Week," and for the "Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Fund" drive.

On November 14, the first meeting was held and members, consisting of sophomore, junior, and senior boys who had maintained an 80 or above average and who had been active in other school activities, elected Tommy Leggett president. The group established as its goal "the giving of many years of service to Suffolk High and to the community." As a first step toward reaching this goal, it prepared food boxes to be distributed by the Welfare Department at Thanksgiving.

The Latin Society, headed this year by Tazewell Daughtrey, was organized for the study and appreciation of Roman culture. Programs, games, and speakers emphasized the fact that influences of the Roman civilization will never die. They tried, also to help the members further their knowledge of the language. The Christmas program, which consisted of the singing of carols and the reading of the nativity in Latin, introduced new words and phrases that were especially interesting. Such activities helped members better understand Greek mythology and culture and made learning Latin more enjoyable.

Later, a program was given on Spanish dress, and several girls in the club wore costumes to illustrate the various fashions. The club also became a service organization this year. At Thanksgiving, canned food was collected and carried to the Welfare Department; at Christmas, toys were collected for needy children. Later, a bake sale was held to raise money for the club's biggest project, a gift to the Language Department.

was begun, and, although it sometimes proved difficult, it club member selected a Pen Pal. The letters, too, proved difficult for some students, but were educational for all.

The Future Teachers of America, under the leadership of Kathryn Lynch, this year found themselves working in several areas preparatory to the careers they hope to follow. Several of the girls helped teach classes and direct gym hours in the local elementary schools. Others worked in the office filing, or helped teachers with paper work. The club as a group served as guides during SHS's "Open House" and held a social to honor the teachers during American Education Week. All of the work done throughout the year, they felt, was certainly helpful to themselves as well as others.

The Science Club took as its goal this year the encouragement of scientific interest through the presentation of programs on newsworthy scientific progress and on hobbies pursued by the members. As an effort to achieve its goal, it affiliated itself with the Science Clubs of America and with the Virginia Junior Academy of Science. It also sponsored President Tazewell Daughtrey as a delegate to the Junior Science and Humanities Symposium at the University of Virginia. Through planned programs, especially those in which the students themselves took part, members were able to learn new ideas pertaining to their own science-oriented hobbies and to increase their knowledge of other scientific subjects.

The officers attended a leadership conference at Churchland, and later helped observe National DECA week by putting posters in the school and publishing articles in the paper. The obviously busy year closed with a banquet held to honor all club members' employers.

Those boys, everyone knew, were the ones who had excelled in some sport and thus members of the Varsity Club. The club, composed of all boys with a letter in a sport, proved to be the media through which the SHS coaches kept in contact with and encouraged boys who had played on or might be interested in playing on their teams. Coach Bill Frazier, for example, issued several papers urging the boys to keep their grades up and to play sports year-round rather than just during one season. The group actually undertook no projects, since it was not intended to be a service organization. Members did, however, serve as ushers during basketball games, and, during football season, choose the P-Nut Bowl court.

The Pep Club is one of the few clubs that had a year-round project, to promote school spirit and instill good sportsmanship in the students of SHS. The group, led by Anne Williams, began work even before school started, and had the halls filled with "Beat Franklin" signs on opening day. Two afternoons of each week thereafter found members seated on the hall floors painting victory messages to be hung in the school, gym, or football field. The club really proved its worth during the week of the P-Nut Bowl when it made a float for the cheerleaders to ride on and decorated the gym for the dance following the game.

The SHS band did a fine job of representing the school at football games and parades, but no marching band is really complete unless preceded by a group of strutting majorettes. The Suffolk majorettes, headed by drum majorette Betty Beamon, this year, practiced long and hard to make up new steps and routines to use during the half time and parade activities. Several times they even shed their regular uniforms and made new ones so that they might take on the appearance of sailors, cowboys, or other characters that corresponded to the routines they planned.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Frank Mesite, has for several years been a source of honors and recognition for SHS. This year proved to be no exception. Perhaps the most publicized honor was that of being designated by Governor Mills E. Godwin as the "honor band" which would lead the marching units in his inaugural parade. The fact that individual members were selected to attend All-State Band and the Workshop Band held at Princess Anne High School also spoke very well for the group, as did the high rating they obtained in the annual Spring Festival. The band, as always, served as a fine source of musical entertainment for the Suffolk citizens. Half times at home football games, the Peanut Bowl parade, and the Christmas parade were livened by their marches, as were the basketball games and pep rallies by the tunes of the Pep Band. Annual Christmas and Spring concerts were held and several times during the year the band presented assemblies for SHS students.

The ten girls dressed in Red and White . . . almost every Friday took on different faces during the weeks of football and basketball games this year. Late August found them acting as hostesses to Area Group II cheerleaders who met to exchange cheers and pep rally ideas. Early in October they turned into bandits and can-can girls in a skit about the killing of an opponent by the Raiders. Then in December they became Santa and elves in order to fill the stocking of the Raider netmen with a season of victories. Always they were a group of yelling girls striving to promote team support and school spirit. The J. V. Cheerleaders helped the girls' team and the JV teams to know that there were plenty of supporters behind them too.

Southampton fifteen game winning streak ended by the red raiders ... all-out effort captures p-nut bowl game for Suffolk squad ... captain Johnny Beale and Steve Coppola named to all-district team ...

Just a few of the high-lights that brightened the 1965 football season for the Red Raiders. They started off poorly - true. But the 27 - 7 loss to the Franklin Broncos in the opening game did serve to show the Raiders that a new placement in Group II did not mean easy competition. The next week their game seemed greatly improved, and relying strongly on the passing ability of quarterback Bob Sweat, they rolled over John Yeates 28-0. Still three weeks later, they stunned Southampton by handing them a 19-12 defeat, and then a victory over the favored Bayside Marlins helped make the P-Nut Bowl a real success. Coach Bill Frazier credited all of the victories to "a great team effort" but did take note of the fact that in the Bowl game quarterback Steve Coppola and fullback Larry Ward (who between them rushed the ball 152 yards) and Jimmy Dixon (who made the three T.D.'s) did especially fine jobs. The 12-12 deadlock with Smithfield proved slightly disappointing to the Raiders, who had hoped to end with a 6-4 record. Later in an assembly Beale received the American Legion trophy and the Tom Sykes Memorial Trophy and Steve Coppola the W.L.P.M. Outstanding Player Trophy.

When the 1966 basketball season opened, the team was pessimistically rated as "not the most experienced Coach Peachy has handled." It didn't take the boys long, however, to show that, though the statement was true, it implied an underestimation of their ability. The first game, which ended in a 52-43 conquest of the Windsor Dukes, was labeled by Peachy as "the best opening game since I've been here." The next two games, which resulted in a 60-35 defeat of John Yeates and a 41-32 defeat of Forest Glen continued to win esteem for the Raiders. In the three games that followed, however, the netmen matched each victory with a defeat. First, due to a pair of foul shots in the last minute, they fell to the Franklin Broncos 39-38. Then they met a 68-60 defeat by Southampton and a 52-45 defeat by Smithfield. They bounced back to win over York 50-37, but then lost to the '64 defending champions, James Blair, 62-56. The remainder of the season consisted mostly of replays. A second game with Glen brought the Raiders, with a record of 87 shots from the floor, a 72-28 victory; a second game with Yeates resulted in a 70-20 whipping of the Rebels. Windsor again met defeat from the Raiders, but the Raiders again met defeat in a game with Southampton. Then, avenging previous losses, they defeated Franklin 64-42, Blair 76-74, and Poquoson 75-44. The season ended when, fighting off a late Raider rally, Blair defeated the team 47-44 in the Group II Tournament.

Dixon adds two points with no opposition from the Windsor players.

Bill Grigg runs into trouble as he attempts to score against the Forest Glen Rangers.

Managers Mike Kelly and Beale Rodgers keep the team equipment in order. Statistician Dal Davidson serves as assistant.

Phil Ferguson appears to be giving the ball a slight kick past a Smithfield player.

For the first time in many years, Spring brought the organization of a golf team at Suffolk High. Since most of the boys were relatively new, they found the season a very difficult one. They met defeat at the hands of Princess Ann, Churchland, Cradock, Cox, Wilson, and Maury, and won only the match with Warwick. In 1966, however, the entire team, with the exception of one senior, returned with the hopes of having a better season.

Raiderettes Post 9-4 Record

solid nucleus from '64 team gives strength to raiderettes . . . girls close season with 9-1 record . . .

Suffolk's feminine basketweavers, equipped with a solid first string from last year's team, found their season so successful that they could have almost declared themselves champions. The opening game with Windsor, which ended with a 36-34 score, became the first on the list of Raiderette victories. The next game, with Forest Glen, proved to be an easier win. The Rangerettes were held scoreless until 0:49 in the first quarter and lagged behind for the remainder of the game so that the final score showed a 24-17 win for the Raiderettes. The next game of the season, with John Yeates, was a real stunner. After the 23-20 loss, though, the girls made a strong come back to defeat Southampton 39-25, Windsor 21-15, Forest Glen 32-25, Churchland 34-22, Portsmouth Catholic 29-19, and Churchland again 44-28. The winning streak ended, though, and the season ended with two losses to Norfolk Catholic.

Certainly a bright year for the Raider cindermen. Sparked by the first meet defeat of the '64 district champions, Southampton, the team established a fairly stable winning streak, with a 5-1 record. Donnie Goldberg figured strongly in chalking up the winning scores, but certainly was not without assistance. Glenn Cole proved more than efficient in the triple jump, a new event, as did David Kincaid in the mile and two mile runs. Ronnie Williams starred in the pole vault and Billy Mathews in the 440, where he established a new record. Though the team failed to place in the district meet at Norfolk, the combined effort of its members was commendable.

Grim predictions, all aimed at the '65 Red Raider netmen. Not a very nice prologue to the season, but one based soundly on facts. Mr. Peachy, coach of 5 champion teams, found himself suddenly equipped with boys who had played little tennis. Kent James alone returned from the '64 list of top players, and thus assumed the new number one position without much competition. Phil Ferguson and Harry Cross also came with some experience, but otherwise the boys were all new. The season proved to be not so bad after all with a 9-0 victory over York, 7-1 victory over Kecoughtan, 7-1 victory over Churchland - ten victories in all - enough to label the season a winning one.

Try-outs for All-State Band were held at Indian River Junior High School and Churchland High School. Those who made high enough scores from Suffolk were Ronnie Williams-cornet, Lynn Tyler - cymbals, Billy Walker - tenor saxophone, Lauren Marr - flute, Suellen Johnson - clarinet, and Linda Bullock - bassoon. The Concert was held at Princess Anne High School where those who participated practiced all day Friday and Saturday with students from all parts of Tidewater for the Concert on Sunday.

Regional Workshop Band members were chosen also at the Indian River Junior High School and Churchland High School. Those selected were Janet Lynch - clarinet, Stanley Holland - bass trombone, Michael Reedy - tenor trombone, Tom Britt - clarinet and Chris Burton - clarinet. The Workshop Concert preceded the All-State Concert at Princess Anne High School.

Betsy Rice won the Homemaker of Tomorrow Award for Suffolk High School from General Mills.

Suffolk High School was proud to honor three Merchant Marine Contest Winners last year. The title of the essay was "American Merchant Marine - Key to Trade and Defense." Betty McLemore, second place winner, won a seventy-five dollar U. S. Saving Bond. Suellen Johnson, first place, won a trip to the Caribbean. Gloria Barnett, third place winner, won a fifty dollar U. S. Saving Bond.

best wishes to the Class of '66

Jane,
 It's been nice
 being in your room
 this year although we haven't been close. Good luck at S.H.S. and the years that follow.
 Deborah

Jane,
 You are a sweet girl and I have enjoyed being in your class.
 With the best of luck,

Jane,

Well, another year has gone by and we've had alot of fun. Remember all the parties we went to! (We had a blast. (They were in the days of roses and wine.) Hope to see you around this summer!

Always,
